

Contents

‘GREY LITERATURE – A PLATFORM AND INTERFACE FOR OPEN SCIENCE’

Is the Production and Use of Grey Marine Literature a Model for Open Science?	73
Bertrum H. MacDonald, Rachael Cadman, Curtis Martin, Simon Ryder-Burbidge, Suzuette S. Soomai, Ian Stewart, and Peter G. Wells; Dalhousie University, Canada
Abstracting and Indexing as an enabling interface between open science and grey literature – The approach of the Aquatic Sciences and Fisheries Abstracts service	84
Tamsin Vicary, Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, Italy Ian Pettman, Freshwater Biological Association, United Kingdom
ConfIDent – An Open Platform for FAIR Conference Metadata	95
Stephanie Hagemann-Wilholt, Christian Hauschke, and Margret Plank; German National Library of Science and Technology, Germany
COVID-19 and Work from Home: Digital Transformation of the Workforce	101
Dobrica Savić, Austria
E-LIS between old and new forms of Grey Literature encompasses new forms of relationship between librarians in different countries	105
Antonella De Robbio, Imma Subirats, E-LIS ePrints for Library and Information Science, Fernanda Peset, Polytechnic University of Valencia, Spain
Data from “E-LIS between old and new forms of Grey Literature encompasses new forms of relationship between librarians in different countries”	113
Antonella De Robbio, Imma Subirats, E-LIS ePrints for Library and Information Science, Spain Fernanda Peset, Polytechnic University of Valencia, Spain
Grey literature as Valuable Resources in the National Library of Iran: From Organizing to Digitization	115
Reza Shahrabi Farahani and Somayeh Sadat Hashemi, National Library and Archives of Iran
Data from “Grey literature as Valuable Resources in the National Library of Iran: From Organizing to Digitization”	122
Somayeh Sadat Hashemi and Reza Shahrabi Farahani, National Library and Archives of Iran

Colophon.....	70
Editor’s Note.....	72
On The Newsfront
GreyNet Online Training.....	125
Advertisements
TIB, German National Library of Science and Technology, Germany.....	94
NTK, National Library of Technology, Czech Republic.....	100
PscEXTRA via EBSCO.....	128
Author Information.....	126
Notes for Contributors.....	129