

GreyWorks 2018

Summer Workshop Series on Grey Literature
ISSN 2211-1425

Data Papers

AN OPEN ACCESS TOOL FOR CITIZEN SCIENCE

Date

Thursday, 16 August 2018

Time

13:00 – 16:30 hours

Location

Amsterdam Public Library
OBA Prinsenzaal 6.6
Oosterdokskade 143
1011 DL Amsterdam
Netherlands

Instructor

Dr. Dominic Farace
GreyNet International

Language

English

Participant Quota

20 participants

Registration

<http://www.greynet.org/traininglab/greyworks.html>

Contact

GreyNet International
Grey Literature Network Service
Javstraat 194-HS
1095 CP Amsterdam, NL

Email: info@greynet.org

Phone: +31 (0)20-3312420

GreyWorks 2018 focuses on data papers, an open access tool for citizen science. Today, data is the catchword for information professionals, practitioners, and net-citizens alike. On whatever scale, data fuels research and informs decision making in every field of study or area of interest. This holds for big data as well as long tail data, which is typically small in size.

This seminar on Data Papers discusses the development and application of an innovative tool that allows one the ability to quickly review data or a dataset, determine its relevance, openly access it, and further cite and reuse it for one's purpose.

The seminar is geared to librarians, researchers, and students involved in the compilation, use, and/or management of data. Emphasis lies in raising awareness to data access and its potential reuse for science and society. The instructor's presentation takes place in a plenary setting, where participants are actively engaged in discussion throughout. Wi-Fi is available for participants who choose to bring their laptops.

Program Outline

- Welcome, Introductions
- Seminar Overview
- GreyNet Use Case
- Template as Tool
- Measuring Impact
- Wrap-up, Take away

GreyNet